37 Youth Attend Cultural Workshop at Flint Corn Community Project

delighted to welcome 37 Indigenous students from TRACS and Farms at Work to the Flint Corn Community Project. The students, along with their families, spent time learning about the Flint Corn Community Project and the importance of the land, water, and food.

Over the three week Biishkaa program, students are acclimatized to both Trent University and Peterborough as a way of acknowledging that many of the youth are leaving their communities for the first time. Tutors and mentors are provided to the students, and they are introduced to the Elders in residence. As a way of immersing the students in their local Indigenous community outings to the Petroglyphs, Black Oak Savannah at Alderville First Nations, and Curve Lake also take place. Adventures and Understanding is a program of the Rotary Club in which Indigenous and non-Indigenous youth come together to share their cultures.
